How to Call the Police:

Emergency call:

For any emergency – defined as you need a police car to come.

Immediately call:

9-1-1                      From a landline.
617-343-4911            From a cell phone

Note: 9-1-1 calls from a cell phone go to the State Police, when they answer you should ask to be transferred to the Boston Police.

You should also call the above numbers to report suspicious activity but not suspicious people. Remember it is what is happening that indicates possible illegal or criminal activity, not what people look like.

Emergencies include something as “minor” as your driveway blocked, a fire hydrant blocked, or a loud party to something as major as a fight with weapons, someone breaking into a house or a car, or gunshots.

When you call it is important to describe what is happening in simple, direct terms – do not use “I think,” “maybe,” or other nonspecific terms – do give as detailed a description as possible of people and cars and be sure to mention the direction of travel of those leaving the scene. Remember to remain calm.
